

Act Ethically:

Ethical self-awareness:

Self-awareness is an attitude of personality like: weaknesses, strengths, motivation and beliefs that allows to understand others attitude and responses. Which our team were trying to deal with all these and to be a good team. Every response and attitude matters and affects other team members and these has a big impact to our project work. In our team everyone tried to know their prejudices, motivation, needs responses to undrestant with team members. We sometimes faced to difficult moments and problems but we tried to get help from someone and feedback to solve.

Understanding different ethical perspective/concepts:

Each team member understood the different ethical perspective. The team member understood the decision and concept of each team member. The team thought about each members ethical perspective and decision on the project so that there will be no conflicts later while developing the project.

Ethical issue recognition:

Issues that was recognise during the project, was the github issue. Our team were unable to commit their work to github. The team discussed about the issue and tried to get help, finally came up with a decision to create a new project on github. The problem was successfully implemented.

Evaluation of Different Ethical Perspectives/Concepts:

Our team each had different approach of understanding or completing the project given, but each team discussed the different approaches in the meeting before continuing on the tasks.
